TELL US HOW THE STORY ENDS ...

is a campaign of the Interamerican Scout Region that promotes actions against bullying in the National Scout Organizations.

It is intended for Scouts ages 11 to 14, but we invite all Scouts to share the content of our social networks and start their own actions against bullying within their groups, units and communities.

We will be posting messages against bullying in our Social Media and sharing the developed support material to you, so later you would be able to share it with all your friends and followers.

On Wednesday, August 16th, we will be making a Live Session to answer questions about bullying and some tips on how to draw comics.

We invite all the Scout Units of the National Scout Organizations to send us the end of the story of Rescue and Trapped comics in digital format between September 2nd and 10th to be published on our social networks during the months of November and December, 2017.

Every unit that participates will become Agents Against Bullying.

By sending us the end of the story along with the full name of your Scout Unit, Group and Country. The idea is to have as much Scout Units as possible!

You can download the documents against bullying at:

"Rescued" and "Trapped" comics: Both are intended to be used during the group meetings with the aim that those present can create a story by what is perceived with the artwork, in this way, boys, girls and young people could have a better understanding of bullying with their own words and ideas.

Being Human: Document that provides help to the group leaders, in which is explained in greater detail the use of the comics as well as the development of other activities that can be done in each meeting or event.

Parent's guide: Tool to be distributed, as its name suggests, to the parents, so that they can be aware about the program against bullying intended to be developed, the document explains concepts for a better and / or greater understanding and especially the role they play in eradicating this behavior.

Fact Sheet: Sheet for distribution of every member of the National Scout Organization in order to have a concise definition and types of bullying, as well as its effects and signs to recognize victims.

National Statement Against bullying Template: To be used as a template to sign your own Statement Against bullying in your National Scout Organization.

ANTI-BULLYING AGENTS

In order for your Scout Unit to receive a certificate of "Anti-bullying Agents", you will have to follow the next steps:

1- Download the documents against bullying following the next link and read them with your Unit: <https://www.scout.org/bullyingScoutIAR>

2- Together, think about how to end the Trapped and Rescue stories with an ending that reflects being a Scout. We are looking for the most creative proposals, which are consistent with comics and represent the values of Scouting!

3- Brainstorm, act the end in your Unit meeting and write it down so you can have the story you want to tell. The end must have between 4 and 6 scenes.

4- Draw several proposals with different techniques, with pencils, watercolors, abstract, stick figure people, whatever you want, what is important is that it reflects the values of Scouting (Remember that the objective of the comic is to be more visual than textual).

5- Paint it, make it digital with a photo or by a scan

6- Complete the following form and attach your story in digital format: <https://app.smartsheet.com/b/form/222ff59e4bb54f93a98d4e2f8ccc09fb>

7- Get ready to receive a certificate of "Anti-bullying Agents" creación de los

8- Take photos and videos of the process to be included in our regional channels

To facilitate the selection we propose you to make your designs in the following format:

1- Tabloid or Double Letter Format (11X17 in.)

2- Technique: Drawing by hand, in colors.

3- The end of the story must be told in between 4 and 6 scenes, graphically.

4- Only complete formats will be published.
